State Library of Victoria Fellowships Program

The State Library of Victoria Fellowships Program is at the heart of the Library's commitment to support the work of Victoria's creative communities. The Program encourages innovative ways to explore and use the Library's extensive collections and resources to create new works for the future.

The Library offers several Creative Fellowships annually to independent writers, artists and scholars who propose thoughtful and creative ways to use the Library's collections.

Applicants may be individuals or collaborative partnerships, and Fellows are awarded grants, scholar privileges and the use of an office in the annulus surrounding the Domed Reading Room.

Now in its eleventh year and the largest program of its kind in Australia, the State Library of Victoria's Fellowships Program has supported more than 140 artists, historians, composers, academics, playwrights, writers, poets and other creative researchers with over $1.5 million in funding since it commenced in 2003.

The Library also offers Fellowships in partnership with the University of Melbourne, the La Trobe Society, the Georges Mora Foundation and a number of named fellowships supported by bequests through the Library Foundation.

If you would like to support the Library's Fellowships Program please contact the State Library of Victoria Giving Manager on (03) 8664 7517.
