

Shift alt story: an introduction to digital storytelling

The Centre for Youth Literature (CYL) at State Library Victoria presents a unique online opportunity to engage with storytelling in the digital era.

This short online learning course for teachers and school library teams explores how digital platforms have transformed how we read, write and share our experience of stories.

Through practical writing tasks and discussion, participants explore techniques used by writers to create digital stories and engage with young adults online.

Discover how readers and writers come together to create new media and passionate communities of readers.

The four-unit, self-paced program covers:

- new ways to connect with characters and storytelling
- sharing our experience of reading and publishing online
- how to enable young people to create and distribute their writing across platforms and around the world

This four week course begins on 22 August 2016.
Bookings are now open.
